The one shot deal don't matter, yeah and the other one's the same

Am F Am F
Oh, my friend I see you, want you to come through

C G
C F
And she's standing in the shadows, where the streetlights all turn blue

(mesmas notas)

She leaving for an American, a suitcase in her hand
Her brothers and her sisters, are all on Atlantic sand
She's screaming through the alley way, I hear that lonely cry,
why can't you?
And her batteries are corroded, and her hundred-watt bulb just blew

She used to hang out at Miss Lucy's, every weekend they got loose
And it was a straight clear case of having taken in too much juice
It was outside, and it was outside, just the nature of the person
Now all you got to remember, after all it's just showbiz

Am F Am F
We're screaming through the alleyway, I hear her lonely cry,
why can't you?

C G F
C G
And she's standing in the shadows, where the streetlights all turn blue

C G F
C G
And she's standing in the shadows, where the streetlights all turn blue

C G F
C G
And she's standing in the shadows, where the streetlights all turn baby blue
