Vaultboy - Aftermath

```
                        tom:
                  G
            G
I moved away and changed my number when I did it
Em
I'd hoped that cutting you off would make me feel different
Am
I know I'm weaker than I probably seem
C
I can't lie I blame you for everything

G
All pins and needles when I meet somebody new and I
Em
Get all choked up whenever they ask about you and I
Am
Feel so pathetic and I wanna scream
C
I can't lie I blame you for everything

D
I think you know exactly what I mean

          G
You really fucked me up
                      Em
Screaming at my mirror like I'm fucking drunk
                  Am
Question who I am and what I could've done
                              C
But you're the one who told me that you were in love

          G
You really fucked me up
                  Em
Close my eyes and think of anything but us
                      Am
Made me feel like I'm the one who's not enough
                  C            D
But you're the one who told me that you were in love, oh

G
Try to forget how you could never meet me in the middle
Em
How all the pain that you inflicted made me feel so little
```

```
Am
A little tired of remembering
C
I can't lie I blame you for everything

G
You'd change so quick you'd start a fight then you'd be saying sorry
Em
Made me look like a fucking idiot at every party
Am
It made me sick it's so embarrassing
C
I can't lie I blame you for everything

          D
And I think you know exactly what I mean

          G
You really fucked me up
                      Em
Screaming at my mirror like I'm fucking drunk
                  Am
Question who I am and what I could've done
                              C
But you're the one who told me that you were in love

          G
You really fucked me up
                  Em
Close my eyes and think of anything but us
                      Am
Made me feel like I'm the one who's not enough
                  C            D
But you're the one who told me that you were in love, oh
Oh, oh, oh

          G
You really fucked me up
                      Em
Screaming at my mirror like I'm fucking drunk
                  Am
Question who I am and what I could've done
                              C            G
But you're the one who told me that you were in love, mm
```

Acordes