

Vulgo Fred - At Your Fingers

```
There?s only one chance
                tom:
                                                                                                              Dm F
Intro: G
                                                                She?s at your fingers (she's in your hands)
                                                                There?s no other way
She was perfectly made for you
                                                                To make her stay
Look to your feelings
And you?ll realize (realize)
                                                                So don?t let her go
          Am
She?s the only one
                                                                Don?t let her fly away
That can make you cry
                                                               Don?t let her pass by
     Am
                                                               Like the clouds at the sky
You love her eyes
       Dm
                                                                Saying ?she could be mine?
Her big brown eyes
     Am
                                                               So don?t let her go
You love her smile (love her smile)
                                                               Don?t let her fly away
Her beautiful smile
                                                               Don?t let her pass by
And she?s in your heart
                                                               Like the clouds at the sky
So don?t let her go
                                                                Saying ?she could be mine?
Don?t let her fly away
                                                               She?s at your fingers
Don?t let her pass by
                                                                She?s in your hands
Like the clouds at the sky
                                                               Say that you?ll be by her side
Saying ?she could be mine?
                                                                In all the stormy nights
So don?t let her go
                                                                It?s time to make things right
Don?t let her fly away
Don?t let her pass by
                                                               So don?t let her go
                                                               Don?t let her fly away
Like the clouds at the sky
                                                               Don?t let her pass by
Saying ?she could be mine?
                                                                Like the clouds at the sky
She was perfectly made for you
                                                                Saying ?she could be mine?
             Dm
Look to your feelings
                                                                So don?t let her go
And you?ll realize (realize)
                                                               Don?t let her fly away
          Am
She?s the only one
                                                               Don?t let her pass by
That can make you cry
                                                                Like the clouds at the sky
Take now your time
                                                               Saying ?she could be mine?
Acordes
```