Watain - They Rode On

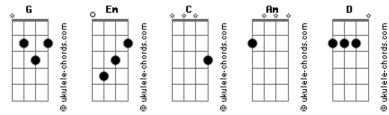

Tom: G Fm Out of the dark, into the light In the dawn of terrestrial birth New-born yet older than time Fm Conceived in the depths of the earth Em Fm Though strange lay the waters from which they emerged Fm They glanced upon the world as their own Yet deep in their hearts they knew all the time Fm That this was not really their home Em Em C Am Fm Fm So they rode on Em Am Fm Yes, they rode on On hidden roads, through barren wastelands Fm Fm Untrodden by both man and beast From the distance their fire was gleaming Fm Fm Like a lamp amidst dark eternity Em A bitter moon hovered above them Fm The night lit sole by its glow From high in a sky of ominous dye Fm In which dark clouds drifted slow Em C Am Fm Fm

So they rode on Em C Am Em Yes, they rode on

They rode with shut eyes as the sun rose Em Regardless of earth's vanity C But with wide open eyes, they paced the night Em And pondered its mysteries

They sat at the crossroads with high and with low

Acordes

Yet neither could alter their course Riches were offered unto them Yet indifferent and without remorse Fm C Am Fm So they rode on Am Fm Yes, they rode on And each lonely vagrant that crossed their path Felt how his heart grew cold Yet be marvelled at their scarred faces So beautiful, distant and old Some say they've heard them singing In strange tongues of melancholy Of the gods, of the night, and of glory Of the dead, and their memory Em C Am Em So they rode on Am Fm C Yes, they rode on Say goodbye to the light Fm

Come twilight, come dark night Em D Say goodbye to the light C Em Come twilight, come dark night

Could you have rode there with them? D Would you have joined their march? C Or would you have them ride on? Em Away into the dark?

Em Would you have been able to let go? D Of illusions of right and of wrong? C And if they came to die Em Would you have rode on?
