

Xana - So It's Your Birthday

```
Did you come out on top?
                tom:
                                                               Did you show 'em who's boss?
Intro: C G Em
                                                                                  G
       G D
                                                               And when I dream of you, do you dream of me too?
[Verse 1]
                                                               It's been four years since I've last kissed you \begin{tabular}{c} \end{tabular}
Did your dye your hair blonde when the winter was gone?
                                                               And I don't ever wanna speak to you again
Did you look at the moon on the first night of June?
                                                               But I might die if I don't hear your voice tonight
                   G
And do you think of me, when she's touching you?
                                                                            C
                                                                                     G
                                                               It's your birthday, darling
Do you still talk in your sleep, are you talking to me?
Did you chase all your dreams
                                                               I wish I could see you when ten thousand candles light up in your eyes tonight
        D
Let 'em fall to your feet
                              G
                                                               ( Em D )
Do you wish at the end of the day you could call me?
                                                               So it's your birthday, baby
                                                                 Em
                                                                               D
[Pre-Chorus]
                                                               Have fun at your party
                                                               I wish I was there to hold back your hair when you've drank
Well it's been two years since I've last seen ya
                                                               too much outta your fancy cup
And I don't ever wanna look at you again
But I might die if those emerald eyes don't search for mine
                                                               And I wonder if you're wanting me back
[Chorus]
                                                                           D
                                                               The best that you ever had
It's your birthday, darling
                                                               Oh darling, don't answer that
I wish I could see you when ten thousand candles light up in
                                                               You can make a wish
your eyes tonight
                                                               I'll blow a kiss
( Em D )
                                                                      D
                                                               But I still won't face the facts
So it's your birthday, baby
                                                               [Final]
 Em D
Have fun at your party
                                                               It's your birthday darling
I wish I was there to hold back your hair when you've drank
                                                               I'm missing you this morning
too much outta your fancy cup
                                                               I wish I could bake you a cake and make it all okay
( D C G )
                                                               ( Em D )
[Verse 2]
                                                                          C
                                                               Happy birthday, baby
Did you make up with your dad?
                                                               I wonder if you hate me
Does he still make you mad?
                                                                'Cause I love you more than the moon and the stars
    Em
And maybe just once did you try to come back?
                                                               You could take a picture wherever you are
Or did ya let the rain wash it all away?
                                                               Mail it my way like a post card and sign your name with a big
Did you fight all those battles you swore you would lose?
```

Oferecimento Lojalele.com.br

