

Ziggy Alberts - Gone (The Pocahontas Song)

```
Tom: E
                                                               love and i won't pretend (forma dos acordes no tom de G )
Capostraste na 9º casa
Intro:
                                                               [Verse]
                                                                        it's just a fling but that's the thing...
[Verse]
         and I watch as the sun goes down...
                                                                        she grabbed me closer so I said...
                                                               [Chorus]
         she grabbed me closer so I said...
[Chorus]
                                                               Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
                                                               her again
                                                               Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
                                                               her again
                                                               Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
                                                               her again
her again
                                                               Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and well, i'm falling in Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and i'll probably never see
                                                               love and i won't pretend [Outro]
Gone, gone as the daylight comes, and well, i'm falling in
```

Acordes

